U. S. Steel to More Than Double By-Product Plant At Clairton, Reports Say

Object Would Be to Eliminate Dependence on Coke Region.

PLANT HAS 768 OVENS

Discussion in Steel Circles in Pittsburg Indicates That Corporation Plans to Add 800; Preparatory Work Is Said to Be Already Progressing.

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, April 26—Steel interests here today discussed widespread reports that the United States Steel Corporation was preparing to increase its important by-product coke plant at Clairton in order that it might not be so dependent on the Connellsville coke region for coke supplies.

When the strike was called steel corporation furnaces felt the curtailed production in the Connellsville field and it was several weeks before transportation facilities could be arranged to meet the emergency. This was accomplished last week and it was stated that with a definite and adequate supply of coal for the by-product ovens could turn out enough coke to meet demands with less waste than beehive ovens which have to be abandoned when the coal is worked out.

The Clairton plant now has 768 ovens; which, according to the report, will be increased by approximately 800. Preparatory work is already in progress.

Coke Region Holders Of U. S. Steel Stock Offering It for Sale

Banks in the towns which are the leading centers of the coke region report an unusual increase in the number of requests to sell shares of United States Steel Corporation stock held by employes of the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

Almost every day one or more persons deposit their certificates with the banks asking that they be sold at the first opportunity and the proceeds applied to the credit of the holders.

Such transactions have heretofore taken place only when the shareholders were in urgent need of money, which appears to be the condition of a large number at this time, notwithstanding they know they will lose both their dividends and annual bonus on the stock by selling it.

Nellie Plant Resumes In Full; Clarissa Holds To 100 Per Cent Record

The Nellie plant 60 ovens, of the Connellsville Interests, at Vanderbilt, is operating today in full, the men who were out on account of the strike having returned to work yesterday.

Clarissa, 40 ovens, of the same interests at the same place, which has maintained 100 per cent operation without break, is still holding to that record.

The gradual drift of men back to work at plants in partial operation continues in all parts of the region, otherwise there is no change in the situation.

Easement in Coal Trade; Little Demand

The easement in the coal market and decrease in demand during the last few days is regarded in the trade as an indication that consumers are not being concerned about their inability to secure all the coal they need.

Mines in operation continue to accumulate unconsigned cars and others, thrown idle by the strike, are making no effort to resume although men in sufficient number to operate have applied for work. This condition prevails to a larger extent in the Lower Connellsville district than elsewhere in the coke region.

Will Return to Work If Given Protection

WAYNESBURG, April 26—A number of miners at the Nemacolin plant of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company have expressed a willingness to return to work, when they are assured of protection.

"Fully seven-tenths of the non-union miners quit work through fear and intimidation," the mine manager states. "This is true not only of our own but all other operations in this and neighboring districts," he said.

Trades Council Meeting.

Members of the Connellsville Trades and Labor Council will hold a business session tomorrow evening in Moose Hall, to be followed by a lunch and smoker. There will be several speakers.

POLICE CHIEF KILLS MEMBERS OF HIS FORCE

By Associated Press.

ANNISTON, Ala., April 26—Police Marshal Welsh of the Anniston police force today drove an automobile containing the bodies of Joseph P. Holliday and C. B. Hurst, also members of the force, to an undertaking establishment where he was alleged to have said he had killed Holliday in self-defense and Hurst accidentally.

Severe Earth Tremors Cause Damage in Japan

By Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 26—A heavy earthquake centering in Tokio occurred at 10:15 o'clock this morning. Considerable damage was done to buildings in the city and their contents.

The earthquake was one of the most severe experienced here in a long period. Officials stated it last 15 minutes, the longest in years. The American embassy was slightly damaged and many of the exhibits at the peace exhibition were broken.

Yokohama was as severely shaken as Tokio and the Chinese quarter in Yokohama was virtually destroyed and the water works disrupted.

New Union Members Want Their "Benefits"

BROWNSVILLE, April 26.—Men who are on strike at the coal and coke plants in this vicinity, and who have become members of the United Mine Workers, have served notice on officials of the union to the effect that unless strike benefits immediately are distributed, they will go back to the coal pits and to the coke ovens.

It is the absence of these strike benefits, which is causing much widespread discontent among the non-union workers which have been prevailed upon to identify themselves with the locals of the United Mine Workers.

Separate State Scales Are Being Negotiated

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 26.—Notwithstanding the declared policy of President Lewis against separate state wage scales, negotiations of such agreements by striking coal miners in Kentucky and Tennessee were announced last night by Frank Harrington, Illinois president of the United Mine Workers.

Separate wage agreements by locals in Illinois are imminent, he added. In Alabama, he said, the state union officers have instructed members to continue at work.

Dawson Council Buys New Hose for Firemen

Dawson Council has purchased a new hose reel for the department. It arrived on Tuesday and will be used down town while the old reel will be transferred to North Dawson, along with sufficient hose to fight fire in that district.

Council has also purchased new rubber coats, gloves, hats and boots for the volunteer fire company.

REGISTRATION LIGHT

Very Few Appear at Polling Places to Be Enrolled For Primary.

Registration today in the city wards of voters who have changed their residences and party affiliation was very light. Practically no changes were made in party preference and the majority of those enrolled that they might have the right to vote in the spring primaries included persons who had moved from one ward to another.

The hours for the registrars were 8 to 1 o'clock; 2 to 6 o'clock, and from 7 to 10 o'clock.

The place for the registration of voters in the Sixth ward, West Side, was changed to the Payne A. M. E. Church to the office of Alderman Frank O'Connor in First street.

Robbers Fail to Open Vault.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 26—The robbers who ruined the combination mechanism on the vault door of the Bruceton Mills Bank several days ago failed to gain entrance to the strong box in which $310,000 was stored, it was revealed today when an expert locksmith opened the vault. The bank officers have been wondering whether the robbers secured anything.

Erie Shops Ordered Closed.

MEADVILLE, Pa., April 26.—The shops of the Erie Railroad here were today ordered closed until May 1 because of slack business. Seven hundred men are affected.

PLENTY OF MINES CHIEF SAFEGUARD OF THE CONSUMER

Declares J. D. A. Morrow in Hearing on Bland Coal Agency Bill.

MONOPOLY IS IMPOSSIBLE

Because of Wide Distribution and Ownership of Mines; Reduction of Operators' Profits Only Part of the Readjustment From War Conditions.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 26—The plan for ending the coal strike, which now is receiving the attention of President Harding and his advisers, was said to contemplate a permanent solution, if possible, of the basic problems of the industry. Presentation of the plan, it was indicated, would be made when a favorable opportunity presents itself.

Testifying before the House Labor Committee yesterday on the Bland bill which proposes to create a federal coal investigating agency, J. D. A. Morrow, vice-president of the National Coal Association, declared it was "sheer nonsense to suppose consumers pay more for coal because of overproduction."

The existence of many more mines than are needed normally to supply the country, Mr Morrow said, "is the chief safeguard of the consumer."

Mr Morrow added that repeated investigation had proven the supply of coal in the United States virtually inexhaustible. Wide distribution of mines and ownership made it impossible for monopoly or price control to exist in the country he asserted.

The margin received by coal operators in 1921 above their operating cost, he said, was about 10 cents a ton, and interest and taxes had to be subtracted from this before profits were figured. He set the cost of labor at 67 per cent of mine costs, material cost at 12 per cent and overhead at about 10 per cent.

The coal industry was described by Mr. Morrow as being "now in the process of readjustment" from the conditions brought on by the war.

"Profits of operators have long since come down to sub-normal," he declared, "but the wages of miners in all the union fields have yet to make the slightest move downward."

Referring to the Bland bill, Mr Morrow said he did not speak for the bituminous coal industry, but personally considered it an unnecessary duplication of effort on the part of the government and creation of an added burden of expense."

Representative Bland, Republican, of Indiana took Mr. Morrow through a line of questioning during which both men agreed that "somewhere in the neighborhood of one-third of all coal mines" are employed by intermittent operations in the industry, more than would be necessary if operations were regular.

Mr. Bland contended, however, that this meant the public had to carry in the price of coal, the expense of maintaining the extra force, while Mr. Morrow insisted the men, when not employed in the mines, "could do something else."

Mr. Bland went into coal cost figures, and finally asked:

"Will you undertake to give this committee the records of costs and profits of the Westmoreland Coal & Coke Company?"

"No, sir," Mr. Morrow answered.

"Why not?" Mr. Bland demanded.

"I doubt the policy of furnishing the financial reports of individual coal companies to their competitors," Mr Morrow told him.

Minstrel Show By Legion Today At Confluence

Confluence American Legion Post will stage its first minstrel show this afternoon and tonight and participating will be some of the best Uniontown talent which has appeared in Legion and Elk shows at the county-seat. The show at Confluence has been fostered by Dr. Milton M. Brooke and directed by Clarence S. Flenniken who recently directed a most successful minstrel entertainment at Masontown. Quite a number of Uniontown people will motor over for the Confluence entertainment.

It was originally planned to present only one performance, in the evening, but interest in the show was so great and so many tickets were sold in advance that it was found necessary to give a matinee performance. So the show will be presented both afternoon and evening.

Injured Youth Leaves Hospital.

Louis Mongelluzzo, a Dawson youth injured yesterday when a Baltimore & Ohio train struck the automobile truck on which he was riding, was discharged from the Cottage State Hospital today. Frank Marotti and Joe Cavalcante, others hurt at the same time, are still at the hospital but their condition is reported to be very good.

Dr. Showers and Wife Home From Holy Land Tour

Dr. J. B. Showers, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Showers and a teacher in Bonebrake Seminary at Dayton, O., and Mrs. Showers arrived in Connellsville today for a brief visit at the parental home after a tour of the Holy Land, Egypt and Europe covering a period of five months. They visited all important places in the Holy Land and Egypt and covered the battlefields of France, in addition to seeing many other places of interest in continental Europe and the British Isles.

For three weeks Dr. and Mrs. Showers were in Jerusalem, making tours out from that city. They spent a month in Egypt, traveling up the Nile as far as the great Assuan dam, the largest in the world. They were in Cairo at the time of the uprising against British rule and it was during their stay in Jerusalem that there was a conflict between the Arabs and Zionists. In neither were they placed in danger.

While in Cairo Dr and Mrs. Showers were entertained at the American legation by Dr J. Morton Howell of Dalton, the new minister to Egypt, who was a fellow passenger from New York and a personal friend.

Dr and Mrs. Showers were in the House of Commons when Lloyd George made his plea for a vote of confidence in the government just before the premier left for the economic conference at Genoa. Other places visited included Rome, where they spent Christmas, Naples, Genoa, the Swiss Alps and various places in England.

The trip to the Holy Land and Egypt was the first Dr. Showers had previously visited Europe, spending 18 months there.

Dr. Showers will speak at the United Brethren Church tonight.

Mrs. Clingerman And Daughter in New Willard Hotel Fire

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, April 26—Mrs. W. H. Clingerman, wife of the president of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, and her daughter, Miss Virginia, a student at National Park Seminary at Forest Glen, Md., were among the guests at the New Willard Hotel in Washington when it was damaged by fire Saturday night.

The Clingermans occupied a suite on the sixth floor. The fire was on the eighth. Mrs. Clingerman was awakened by the noise of fire engines under her window. Soon afterward hotel attaches and firemen visited the rooms and quelled the fears of the guests, telling them there was ample time to dress and leave the building. Mrs. Clingerman and daughter went to another hotel.

Trinity River Rising; Flood Toll Reaches 47

DEATH OF OFFICER DUE TO AN ACCIDENT, OFFICIALS BELIEVE

Do Not Cling to Theory That Tampering Caused Wreck at Leckrone.

INVESTIGATION IS BEGUN

Dead Man Is J. W. Moreley, Who With State Trooper Thomas Lawson, Was Riding Caboose; Served With American Forces in France.

Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad were not inclined today to believe that tampering with the cars was the cause of the runaway Tuesday night of a train of loaded coke cars on a grade between Leckrone and Smithfield which collided at the end of the dash with a string of empties at Leckrone, causing the death of J. W. Moreley, a Baltimore & Ohio detective, and injury to Thomas Lawson a state trooper who were riding the caboose. This opinion was given in advance of an investigation which was to be made this afternoon. It was the belief of officials, it was said, that it was simply a case of a train getting away on a grade.

The train was being taken from Leckrone to Smithfield about 10:30 o'clock. Seven cars and a caboose broke loose and ran down a two an one-half per cent grade, finally colliding with the empties. Morrley was standing on the rear end and was instantly killed. Lawson was painfully injured and was removed to the Uniontown Hospital. He is 21 years old.

Both officers were working at the brakes, endeavoring to slow down the runaway cars and did not see the string of empties in time to jump. Following the collision the caboose immediately caught fire. The flames ignited Lawson's trouser leg and aroused him from an unconscious state into which he had been rendered by the smash. He crawled from the wreckage. In addition to his body bruises he suffered a bad wound above the left eye.

The officers were stationed on the train following complaints that attempts had been made on railroad property. Recently a charge of dynamite was exploded in the same district.

The loaded coke cars had been gathered from the various mines and were being taken to Smithfield for shipment to their destinations.

The railroad officer had been in the employ of the company for a number of years. He was acting as a lieutenant under Captain R. C. Bledsoe.

County Detective Russell went to the scene of the accident immediately on receiving word of it. The state police at New Salem were the first to reach the place and Captain Bledsoe of this city is to visit the scene today and will conduct an investigation.

The dead man was a resident of this city, and had been here about two years. He resided at 149 Sixth street, West Side. He is married and was the father of two small children. He was a veteran of the World War, serving with the regular army in France where he received 11 wounds in addition to being gassed. He entered the service as a private and was top sergeant when discharged. His home was in Connecticut.

The body was removed to the chapel of Funeral Director Charles C. Mitchell and this evening will be removed to the family home.

The runaway train was in charge of Conductor W. B. Feathers.

Daughter of Former Local Girl Seriously Injured in Chicago

Marwin Brennan, eight years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herbert Brennan of Chicago, formerly of Connellsville, was painfully injured recently when she was run down by a bicycle while on her way to St. Scholastic Academy, where she is a student. The Academy is near her home. She was removed to her home and later she was taken to Henrotin Hospital, where she was a patient for two weeks. She suffered a dislocation of the hip which is still in a cast. Her father is political editor of the Chicago Post. Her mother was formerly Miss Marguerite Brennan of this city.

After the child had been discharged from the hospital, her grandmother, Mrs. T. J. Brennan of Johnston avenue, who had been visiting at the Brennan home in Chicago was admitted to the same hospital and was a patient there for seven days, undergoing a slight operation. She is getting along very nicely.

Repair Work Of W. M. Goes To Baltimore

By Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, April 26.—All heavy repair work on locomotive and steel cars of the Western Maryland Railway Company, done formerly at the Hagerstown Ridgely and Elkins shops will soon be moved to Baltimore, it was announced last night.

Removal of the classified repair work to this city, President Byers of the Western Maryland said, was brought about by the strike of shop craftsmen and maintenance of way employes who walked out some weeks ago in protest against the transfer of their departments to private contractors.

Concentration of the repair work in Baltimore will eliminate about 500 mechanics at Hagerstown, 300 at Ridgely and 100 at Elkins, Mr. Byers estimated. He added that the company was sending about 60 locomotives to locomotive works at Philadelphia and Richmond, Va., for heavy repairs.

Automobile Show Opens Tonight at State Armory

The Connellsville Automobile Show will open tonight at 7 o'clock at the State Armory, with an orchestra furnishing the music. This orchestra will play for the entire show, furnishing a complete program for each evening.

The decorations are in charge of Clyde Hess, of the Wright-Metzler Company, forming an attractive background for the cars displayed. They consist of colored electric globes and Japanese lanterns set off with flowers.

The show will end Saturday.

A special room has been assigned for a fine display of automobile accessories.

Some of the cars on display are the Jordan, Daniels, Lincoln, Cadillac, Haynes, Buick, Paige, Jewett, Marmon, Packard, Nash, Lexington, Oakland, Columbia, King, Franklin, Dort, Cole, Hupmobile and Reo.

Publishers' Head Opposes Further Price Reductions

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 26—Placing the full weight of the American Newspaper Publishers Association against any effort to introduce the 44-hour week in newspaper shops and declaring there cannot be any reduction in newspaper advertising or subscription rates at this time, T. R. Williams of Pittsburg, president of the association, called on the members at the annual convention here to eliminate waste in newspaper plants and get behind the apprentice school movement in order to prevent a shortage of skilled help.

Sight Restored to Jeannette Teacher

JEANNETTE, April 26.—As suddenly as it was taken away, sight was restored to Prof. F. B. Leinbach of Jeannette High School and he was able to resume his classes Tuesday.

Prof. Leinbach was stricken with blindness Monday morning and it was feared that it would be permanent. Paralysis of the optic nerve was feared by physicians who attended the popular teacher and coach of athletics.

Prof. Leinbach was gassed and suffered from shell shock during the World War and this is believed to have been responsible for his headache and temporary blindness which lasted about 12 hours.

C. C. LIVENGOOD, FORMER RESIDENT SCOTTDALE, SLAIN

Bullet of Uniontown Officer Strikes Him in Back of Head.

DIES AT THE HOSPITAL

Claim of Policeman Is That Livengood and Two Others Ran When Officers Approached; Son of Well-Known Parents and Engaged in Business.

Clarence C. Livengood, who was shot and fatally wounded Tuesday night in Uniontown by Policeman Price of the city force, was formerly a resident of Scottdale and Everson and well-known in Connellsville. Price shot at Livengood when he and two other men who were said to have been loitering in a street failed to heed a command to halt. One of the bullets struck Livengood in the back of the head and he died soon afterward at the Uniontown hospital.

According to the officers the three men were first seen at a drug store at Broadway and Penn streets. They left when the police approached and Officers Schuh and Price followed them. They were later seen in the vicinity of the Sansone Produce Company, acting suspiciously, the officers said. Here Chief Moorehouse joined the officers and the chase began.

The men separated on Pittsburg street and one went up back of the postoffice. The officers called to them to halt and when the men kept on running Chief Moorhouse drew his gun and fired twice in the air. Officer Price started after the men only to find that he had but one shell in his gun. He went back to Chief Moorhouse and obtained his revolver and continued the race, firing as he ran. Later he came upon Livengood lying prostrate.

Mr. Livengood, who was 35 years old, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Livengood of Scottdale. For some time he was engaged in the pop business, with Thomas Love of Connellsville and it also was said he had been engaged in coal operations in the vicinity of Uniontown where he had lived for five years. Previously he had been a resident of Masontown and operated a store.

Born and reared at Everson, Mr. Livengood spent the greater part of his life in the Mill Towns. He married Miss Edith Moorhead, daughter of Justice of the Peace and Mrs. H. H. Moorehead of Everson. Seven children survive. They are Joseph, Walter, Ralph, Albert J., Charles, Mildred and Richard. He leaves also a brother, W. B. Livengood, at Hutchinson, Kan., and a sister, Mrs. E. H. Kelly, at Scottdale. A brother, Carl Livengood, was killed in action in France.

Aaron Company Places Insurance On Its Employes

The Aaron Company, with furniture stores in Connellsville, Greensburg and Brownsville, has insured all its employes, policies amounting to $120,000 being written by a local agent. The policies are in three classes, being for $2,000, $2,000 and $1,000 each, depending upon the length of employment of the person for whom the policy was written.

The Aaron stores employ about 50 persons and policies were written for each of these employes. Those longest in the service are insured for $3,000 and those in the next division get $2,000 policies. The $1,000 policies are on the youngest employes.

More Interest In Operation of City Postoffice

What a big business man says about the postoffice

"The postal service is essentially the people's service They own it they operate it They are its patrons its stockholders its employees

'No other government agency reaches them so intimately When its process lags or industry falters it radiates democracy it personifies service it throbs with the spirit of cooperation

Postmaster F J Collins says that he is delighted with growing number of interesting suggestions of helpfulness that local business and professional men are sending in to the office by letter and the many personal calls at his office and adds that the public generally is just commencing to realize that the postal service is their own big business that they are all stockholders of the biggest business in the country

Business men are making daily inquiries about the dispatching service and are learning how earlier mailings will get more business

A number of merchants have learned that the Connellsville post office is in possession of a mailing list that covers the county and that it may be used by them for business purposes providing they prepare their mailings in accordance with the instructions of the department

Patrons who have neglected to rent mail boxes at their residence are preparing for the big week by having them erected now

An item of extreme importance in the service by the public Mr Collins said is the gratifyingly decreasing volume of improperly addressed letters He says this is a good sign that the public is gone to do all it can be within their power to help their service

That's why so many people who buy entirely from the standpoint of satisfaction, drive the SPECIAL-SIX.

Satisfaction with a SPECIAL SIX is due to its dependable chassis, its Studebaker-built body, and the completeness of the equipment.

This equipment includes an eight-day clock, one-piece, rain-proof windshield with parking lights in lower corners of windshield base, and windshield wiper

It includes cowl ventilator controlled from dash, tonneau light with extension cord, transmission lock which is operated by same key that locks the tool compartment in the left front door-pocket as well as the ignition and a large rectangular plate glass in the rear curtain

There are many other features that would be considered unusual in cars of much higher price. Let us tell you some other points of SPECIAL-SIX superiority.

The mechanical excellence of the SPECIAL-SIX has proved its satisfaction in the hands of thousands of owners

Its 50-horsepower motor provides great resources of smooth flowing power and wonderful flexibility Its perfected dry-plate disc clutch makes gear-shifting quiet and easy

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, APR. 26, 1922.

NEW CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND OUR DUTY.

With the executive committee of the new Chamber of Commerce considering plans for a membership drive, it is by no means too early for every citizen to give earnest thought to their duty and responsibility as relates to the success of the campaign.

The new organization will be just what the people of the city are willing it shall become. If there is refusal by any considerable number of persons to become associated with the new body, it will mean that its strength and influence as a boosting organization will be impaired from the very beginning. On the other hand, every business man and enterprise, professional man or worker in the different lines of gainful employment must realize that only by whole-hearted coöperation and friendly interest can the chamber be made as effective as it needs to be.

The fact that former organizations of this kind have failed in certain respects should not deter a single individual from becoming identified with the new. In the realms of business and industry there have been conspicuous successes built up on the ruins of more or less disastrous failures. Men are not deterred from embarking in new enterprises because others have fallen short of the expectations of their promoters. Profiting by the mistakes, defective plans or unwise policies of the failures, new undertakings have become firmly established and have continued to progress from year to year.

There is no apparent reason, except failure or refusal of the people of the city to join hands in the movement, why a new Chamber of Commerce should not just as certainly pursue the same course and achieve the same goal as business enterprises which have learned, from the experience of the less successful, how to steer clear of pitfalls.

It might be best, in some ways, to forget that Connellsville ever had a board of trade or similar body. In the organization of a new body some people may find it difficult to free themselves of the impression that, because of the unfortunate history of former efforts, an organization of this kind cannot receive the sustained support necessary to make it an effective instrumentality for furthering the material interests of the community. If such an impression can be wholly dismissed from the minds of every person an impetus can be given the new chamber that will carry it forward to the kind and measure of success every citizen knows the community needs if we are to keep abreast of the progress and develop opportunities for more business and more employment for our people.

If membership in the new chamber is taken with the determination to work together like we did during Liberty bond days, and in the firm belief that we will accomplish worthwhile things, even if slowly, there can be no doubt of ultimate success. If this attitude and frame of mind is assumed by every citizen, the work of recruiting the membership will be easy.

For that reason it is not out of place at this time to urge that we make up our minds in advance of the membership campaign that our duty to the community, to its interests and our own requires that we take step in the movement to give Connellsville the best Chamber of Commerce it has ever had.

If the proposed government plan for aiding the coal strike is no better than some of the visionary schemes, hatched in the fevered imaginations of Congressmen, for regulating the industry, it will be the beginning of new trouble, not the ending of old.

We ought to be gladder every day that President Harding put the "no" in Genoa, insofar as participation by the United States is concerned.

In considering any plan for settling the coal strike Washington must not forget that the present Administration is committed to the principle of "less government in business and more business in government."

The great need of the idle men at the coke plants is not a strike leader, but of some courageous men in whose families the flour bin is running low to say, "Come on boys, let's go to work. Don't let the kiddies go hungry."

Making Listeners of Them.

Detroit Free Press.

"I'll say this for the radio parties."

"What?"

"It's the only thing invented so far that could get some people to stop talking long enough to listen."

Coke Strike Collapsing

Cleveland Daily Iron Trade.

The first sign of the inevitable break in the coal and coke strike is appearing in the Connellsville regions. The disintegration of the hastily-collected, misled and deceived army of raw trade union recruits already is under way. In the past several days workmen, who entered the strike by being either stampeded through naive enthusiasm or frightened by threats of personal violence, have begun to drift back to work. Of course and very naturally, the straggling back to mine and oven has been in mere driblets, largely as individuals; later it will be by groups, then by neighborhoods. It promises to be only a matter of weeks, or even days, until coke regions will be as busy as ever.

Standing like a wall, the rock-ribbed Leisenring mine district within stone's throw of the City of Connellsville, today is proving the Verdun of the Connellsville strike against which the union hordes have battered in vain. The Leisenring mines—always symbolical of the most progressive methods, the most humane treatment of its workmen—the Leisenring mines which for a quarter of a century have set the pace not only for the Connellsville region but also for the entire coal-mining industry in America, are working; with non-union workmen, this despite all the propaganda of union organizers to the outside world. Upon Leisenring were concentrated the utmost efforts of the mine union authorities—and they have failed, and they have failed because the H. C. Frick Coke Company consistently puts into practical effect the broad, humane and enlightened labor policies of its parent organization, the United States Steel Corporation, paying better wages, providing better working conditions, housing, etc., than many concerns that sign the union wage scales.

The end of the strike in the Connellsville regions is in sight. But that does not mean the end of the general coal strike itself. It is nowhere in sight as yet. In the beehive coke region of southwestern Pennsylvania, upon which the immediate attention of the iron and steel industry has been riveted for weeks as the stubborn struggle ebbed and flowed, now this way and again that way, the crux will have passed within a very few weeks. But in the other coal-mining districts the struggle will be prolonged, in some sections ending sooner than in others. But the first phase of the final battle is working toward conclusion, with repentant and now thoroughly sobered mine and coke workers slowly straggling back to work.

There can be no doubt of the final outcome.

Railroad Rate Reductions Forecast

Pittsburg Gazette Times.

A report from Washington said to be founded on official information that the Interstate Commerce Commission will announce rail freight reductions within 10 days will afford satisfaction to large numbers of people. To others it will appear as the forerunner of announcements which may not please them. That existing rate schedules operate to retard business revival is a rather common belief. If this is well-founded, reductions should be beneficial over a wide range of activities. These benefits should be felt by the ultimate consumer in reduction of prices of consumable goods. A fall in the cost of living would be a reasonable expectation. Co-incidentally there should be a sharp increase in demand for articles of consumption, effecting an augmentation of the forces employed in industry. Probably this would re-open the question of wage rates wherever these have not been fixed for a definite term. But this need not be seriously troublesome if the reduction of family expenses were appreciable.

Whether the railroads can stand a cut in rates without a comparable reduction of expenses is a problem. Unless there were an immediate huge increase in the volume of traffic they might find themselves in a predicament. Wherefore it behooves all elements concerned for their own and the general welfare to coöperate to prevent any slump in business. Of late the transportation companies have been giving orders for supplies and equipment that have gone a long way in helping the improvement which everyone has noticed. Their income must be maintained if they are to carry out their plans and expand their programs of work.

The decision to be made follows on a protracted investigation of the railroad situation by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is to be assumed that the members of this body have convinced themselves that rate reductions will themselves better the carriers' position as well as that of the public or they have knowledge that another government agency will come to the relief of the roads. Certain it is there will be a failure to realize the greatest possible benefits if attempt is made to prosper any elements concerned in the transportation business at the expense of others.

Last Thing He Wanted.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Leave it to me, I'll see that you get justice," said the pompous attorney.

"For the love of Mike," exclaimed the client, "I could get that without hiring an expensive lawyer. I want you to see that I do not get it."

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

TEMPTATION.

The tempter came and whispered low:
"Take this. The world will never know—
And if it does, the law is such
Your person it cannot ever touch
You can be rich and buy all things.
Have every joy which money brings,
And live at ease." The youth said:
"No.
I will not buy my fortune so."

The tempter smiled. "I offer you
That which your neighbor there will do
If you decline. From day to day
His conch will pass along the way
And you shall see him living high
With luxuries you cannot buy.
Safely he shall enjoy, my lad,
The fortune which you could have had.

"If you can stand each day to see
Your neighbor dwell in luxury
While you in poverty remain,
I will not trouble you again.
But here is fortune at your door,
Steal now, and need to steal no more."
He answered: "Better years of grief
Than have to know myself a thief."

What if the written law must fail
To lock the other man in jail,
He knows the way his fortune came
And all his joy is touched with shame.
Strangers may think he earned his pelf,
But he cannot deceive himself.
The courts may set a rascal free,
But in his heart a thief is he.

Kozar and Dunaway Will Be Pitchers for the Connellsville Independents During Summer

Both Slabmen Known for High Class Brand of Work They Do.

FIRST GAME ON MAY 13

The Connellsville Independents are now practically lined up in readiness for the opening contest. This game will be played Saturday, May 13. The team will go on the field before that time and work out together for a short period in order to over-come early season raggedness and affect some sort of team play.

The management of the Cokers has completed arrangements for two pitchers, who will undoubtedly form the twirling staff of the team throughout the season if their work is satisfactory. They are Kozar and Dunaway. Kozar was the ace of the Whitney team last season and Dunaway had a good record with Mount Braddock and the City League in Uniontown. He performed in this city in a few games and made himself popular with local fans.

Kozar also wore a Coker uniform at times last season and proved his effectiveness. His record with Whitney, however, is the outstanding feature of his career, he being rated almost the equal of Buck who was given a try-out with Detroit. Kozar is Buck's equal, some of his friends maintain.

There had been some consideration given Ollie Pickett of Grapeville but after being unable to come to terms with this big flinger, the proposition was dropped.

The management is still working on its schedule and is booking some classy outfits. Those acquainted with the efforts being put forth to build up the Coker Independents know Connellsville district fans are going to see some of the best baseball on any independent circuit this year.

* * * *

The Connellsville City League will be opened on Saturday, May 6, by the Baltimore & Ohio and Fayette Baking Company teams. This was determined by a drawing at a meeting of the teams held in the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. last night. The game will be in the nature of a booster contest.

The Lenox Club and the Methodists will play the following Monday and the Jr. O. U. A. M. nine and the K. of P. on Tuesday. Following these games the regular league schedule of games will fall on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Teams are planning practices each evening from now on until the opening of the season.

* * * *

The Connellsville Church League met last night at the Christian Church and made arrangements to have a schedule, including six teams, drawn up at once. This will be prepared by John Moore. The teams which will compose the league are United Presbyterian, Evangelical, Lutheran, Christian, Covenanter and First Presbyterian. The games will be played on the South Connellsville diamond. The grounds will be put into condition and a new back-stop erected.

In cases of disputes they will be settled by a committee of pastors of the various churches. The season will open on May 16. The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the Christian Church.

* * * *

The West Side Olympics are desirous of arranging games with any "amateur team in Fayette county." The Olympics have a strong outfit this year, the manager sets forth. For games see R. Knight at the corner of West Crawford avenue and First street at 8 o'clock any evening.

* * * *

The West Side Tigers deny the Komos defeated them Saturday. The Tiger short-stop, pitching for the defeated outfit was the only Tiger in the line-up, the manager declared today.

* * * *

Rain prevented the Pirate-Cub clash at Chicago yesterday.

* * * *

A number of local fans are going to attend the boxing match between Johnny Donnelly and Bobby Ward at the Gallatin Gardens in Uniontown tomorrow evening.

* * * *

The Poplar Grove Klairdales will open their season May 6 at Poplar Grove with the Everson Firemen outfit, the game starting at 4:30 o'clock. Ryland and Cover will form the battery for the Klairdales. On May 8 the Klairdales play Davidson, at Poplar Grove, the game to start at 5 o'clock.

* * * *

Manager George Stallings of the Rochester Internationals has turned Outfielder Ben Paschal back to Charlotte. A leg broken last fall handicapped Paschal in his hopes of making good with Rochester.

* * * *

There is a radical difference between the styles of play employed by Eastern and Western basketball teams. In the West, close, hard guarding is allowed, while in the East any attempt to play other than the ball is a foul.

LEARN TO CATCH IF YOU WOULD MAKE GOOD IN BASEBALL GAME

Many of Major League Managers Are Old-Time Catchers.

Youngsters who want to stay in the game after their baseball legs give out should go to catching.

It seems from figures that the wise old buckstops have the best chance of remaining in the game at big money after their field days are over.

One-half of the major league managers are old catchers and practically every one of them have teams up in the races in both leagues. Old-time catchers, in fact, have become so successful in handling teams that club owners are seeking them for open berths.

National League Leads.

The National League leads with six managers who have served behind the bat. Pat Moran, manager of the Reds, has two pennants and a world's championship to his credit. Branch Rickey had the runner-up last year and the prospective dark horse of 1922. George Gibson failed to win a pennant in his first year out, when his team collapsed in the stretch with the pennant almost cinched. Fred Mitchell made a success of the Braves and put the National League on the map in Boston. Bill Killifer, star catcher of the Cubs, is the only playing manager among the receivers. He started in mid-season last year after Johnny Evers resigned, and he did as well with the club as could be expected. Uncle Wilbert Robinson is another good example of the success achieved by former catchers.

Connie Mack Is Dean.

Only two managers in the American league can trace their career back to the mask and big glove days. Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Athletics, is the dean of them all. The lean leader of the Philadelphia Americans used to be the king of them all, but he has been in the slumps for six years. Lee Fohl, who has built up a pennant contender for the St. Louis Browns, is the only other former catcher handling a club in Ban Johnson's circuit.

NOTES of the DIAMOND

The Brooklyn club has released Pitcher Paul Schreiber to the Saginaw Mint league club.

Special instructions have been given Coast league umpires to enforce the balk rules the coming season.

Eddie Hazen, outfielder, acquired by Springfield of the Western association from Omaha, may be converted into a first baseman.

Eddie Hooper, veteran minor league manager and player, has been engaged as baseball coach for Mount St. Mary's college at Emmitsburg, Md.

Pitcher Carly Brown, to whom the Kansas City club acquired title from the Los Angeles club, has decided that he won't play ball this year.

Claud Nool, all 'round athlete and pitching candidate, has been released by the St. Louis Browns to the Aberdeen club of the Dakota league.

Vernon Spencer, playing the outfield for Indianapolis in an exhibition game at Galveston, cracked a leg and is likely to be out of it for some time.

The Bloomington club of the Three-I has signed Roy Adams, a pitcher who has made a great reputation playing with the Valparaiso university team.

Ed Manning, veteran infielder, who tried a comeback in the Southern league last year, announced he will not join the Atlanta team this year.

Cornelius (Red) Roche, third baseman, sold last year by Kansas City to Charleston and later transferred to Lakeland, has been declared a free agent by Secretary Farrell.

With Andy High threatening to take his job away from him, Jimmy Johnston of the Brooklyn Dodgers has taken on new life and is playing third base up to the handle and hitting hard.

Billy Bergen, for years a catcher on the Brooklyn team, of late years in retirement at Worcester, Mass., has been signed to coach pitchers on the Syracuse team of the International league.

Manager Tris Speaker of Cleveland lets it be known that he will carry seven infielders. McInnis, Wamby, Sewell and Gardner are the regulars, with Gulsto, Stephenson and Hammond the substitutes.

Jake Daubert, first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, is hitting the ball as hard as ever, proving distinctly that he has not outlived his usefulness.

in accordance with the custom inaugurated a year ago when the football captain returned in that capacity after graduation. Aldrich is the only man in Yale's athletic history to captain both the baseball and gridiron teams.

FORDS RUN 34 MILES ON GALLON GASOLINE

Start Easy in Coldest Weather—Other Cars Show Proportionate Saving.

A new carburetor which cuts down gasoline consumption of any motor and reduces gasoline bills from one-third to one-half is the proud achievement of the Air-Friction Carburetor Co., 385 Madison street, Dayton, Ohio. This remarkable invention not only increases the power of motors from 30 to 50 per cent, but enables every one to run slow on high gear. It also makes it easy to start a Ford or any other car in the coldest weather. You can use the very cheapest grade of gasoline or half gasoline and half kerosene and still get more power and more mileage than you now get from the highest test gasoline. All Ford owners can get as high as 34 miles to a gallon of gasoline. So sure are the manufacturers of the immense saving their new carburetor will make that they offer to send it on 30 days' trial to every car owner. As it can be put on or taken off in a few minutes by anyone all readers of this paper who want to try it should send their name, address and make of car to the manufacturers at once. They also want local agents, to whom they offer exceptionally large profits. Write them today.—Advertisement

TOLD OF KITCHENER'S DEATH?

Interesting Story That Has Recently Appeared in Book Published by English Author.

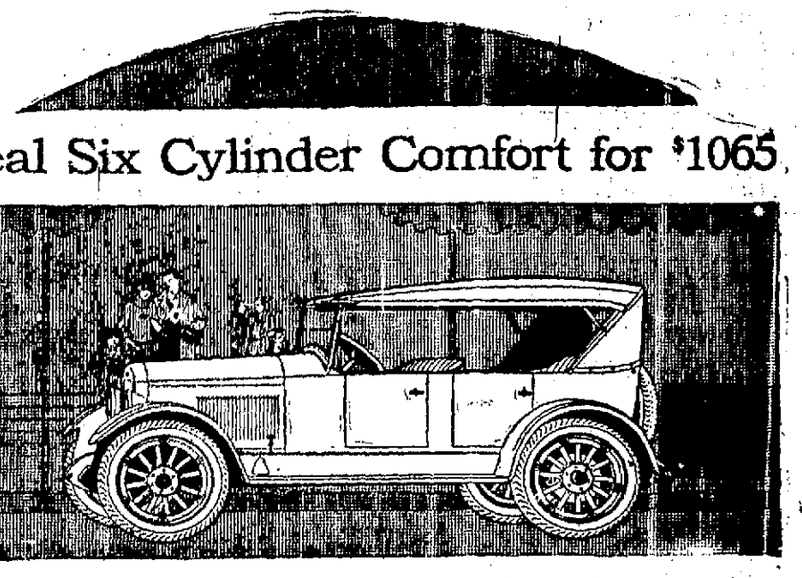
Lady Angela Forbes in her book, "Memories and Base Details," says that Lord Kitchener was interested in spiritualism, and that he was undoubtedly not only interested, but a believer in it:

"Count Hamon, better known as Cheiro, told me a story which to the incredulous may only appear as coincidence, but cannot fail to be interesting.

"Count Hamon was a friend of Kitchener's, and in reading his horoscope had, apparently, always told him that his death would be a sudden one, but that he need not anticipate danger in the field of battle. Just before Lord K. went abroad, Count H. went to the war office, and K. showed him a little blue vase, which he had once given him as a mascot, and told him that he always kept it on the table. He asked Count H. if there was anything he could do for him before he left the country. The count replied in the negative, but K. told him there was one thing he would do—if anything happened to him he would give him a sign. At the very hour the Hampshire went down, Count Hamon was in the music-room of his house in the country, at one end of which was a large hatchment, securely nailed to the wall. For no reason at all it fell with a crash, and might have been cleft in two by an ax. Count Hamon guessed instantly that something had happened to Lord Kitchener, and that this must be the promised sign."

EVERYTHING AGAINST HIM

John McGraw, manager of the Giants, tells an amusing one on Pitcher Fred Toney in the World's series. The robust twirler was heart and soul for winning, but couldn't. The second time he was taken out his disappointment was intense and for the moment the iron entered his soul. Nobody said anything when he went to the bench, and for a moment he didn't say a word. Then out with it thus: "Well, that's what I get for coming to this town. The public's against me, the players are against me, the press is against me and the manager's against me."



Real Six Cylinder Comfort for $1065

Sixes run smoother, throttle down lower, pick up faster, climb better—do everything you want a car to do better than a four can do it. You'd sooner drive a six than a four.

And now that the Jewett Six is available at $1065 F. O. B. factory, there is no reason why you should not have a six. No longer need you put up with the lesser abilities of a four when at this low price you can have not only such performance but also such strength and stability as is yours in the Jewett Six.

Paige-designed and Paige-built the Jewett is above all things a quality automobile. The 50 horsepower, 6-cylinder motor—larger and stronger than that used in any other car in its price class—is built complete in the Paige shops. It is the perfected output of a manufacturing institution that for years has built powerful, smooth-running, capable power plants.

Study the flow of this mighty power as it is delivered in the Jewett chassis back through clutch and gear, drive shaft and axle and you will find every essential unit remarkably strong and capable. Here is the sound, sturdy construction that will stand up under the hardest work. And it will last the longer in the Jewett because the inherently balanced, smooth-running six does not jerk and vibrate.

This Six of remarkable performance and unusual strength is available at this low price because of the unusual position of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company. With no bonded indebtedness, with great financial strength, with complete facilities, with a rapid turnover of capital, this company was able in producing a new six to take full advantage of the present materials market and to offer you real quality at a price never before possible in a really high-grade six-cylinder automobile.

Ride in a Jewett today and let it prove its strength and power to you in demonstrated performance. We ask the opportunity to prove to you to your own satisfaction that this six does beat fours.

First to establish the $109.00 price—"Usco"

THE makers of U. S. Tires made this announcement last November—

"Hereafter the price of the 30x3½ 'Usco' is $10.90."

The lowest price ever quoted on a tire of quality reputation and standard performance.

And now, with the opening of Spring, there seem to be quite a number of "New and Special tires" coming into the market in the $10.90 price range.

Perhaps you are wondering just what there can be either "new" or "special" about these tires.

It can't be the $10.90 price—"Usco" established that five months ago.

Nor quality reputation and standard performance—for it takes more than one full season for any new tire to demonstrate where it stands in quality and value

With so many tires rushing into this $10.90 price field (now that the season promises business from the American car-owner), it is worth remembering that "Usco" showed its good faith by announcing this price last fall.

The same intent to serve that has made "Usco" a standard value for years.

The "Usco" Tire was never better than it is today—with its established quality, its time-tested performance, and its price closely figured in tune with the times.

EFFECTS OF SECOND WEEK OF STRIKE ON COKE, COAL OUTPUT

Former Was Reduced by 26,000 Tons Chiefly in the Connellsville Region.

3,681,000 TONS OF COAL

Produced, or Less Than During Strike Of 1919 When the Anthracite Mines Were Running; Light Demand From Consumers; Many Cars Unbilled.

Production of beehive coke in the United States in the second week of the strike declined again sharply says the weekly report of the Geological Survey, compiled by F G Tryon From reports of cars of coke loaded by the principal coke carriers the total output is estimated at 149,000 net tons, against 175 000 tons in the week preceding The chief factor in this decrease of nearly 15 per cent was the extension of the strike in the Connellsville region During the first week the strike was practically confined to the Lower Connellsville district, during the second week it affected the Connellsville district proper also

According to The Courier, production in the two districts has been as follows:

District	Week Before	First Week	Second Week
Connellsville	87 950	102 530	87 810
Lower Conn.	62 010	32 590	11 000
Total . . .	149 960	134 120	98 810

For the region as a whole production during the second week of the strike was 34 per cent below that of the last week, before the strike began

Production by states, compared with the same week of 1921, was as follows:

	1922	1921
Pennsylvania and Ohio	133 000	50 000
West Virginia	10 000	6 000
Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia	6 000	6 000
Virginia and Kentucky	7 000	8 000
Colorado and New Mexico	1 000	2 000
Washington and Utah	2 000	2 000
U S Total . . .	149 000	74 000
1921 to Date		701 000
1922 to Date		133 000
Decrease from 1921		568 000

A decrease in the production of bituminous coal marked the second week of the strike Anthracite production as before was practically zero

The revised figures for the week of April 15 are 3 675 000 tons of bituminous coal and 6 000 tons of anthracite, a total for all coal of 3 681 000 tons In the second week of the 1919 strike the production of soft coal was 1 024 000 tons and of anthracite 1 880 000 tons, a total for all coal of 5 884 000 tons The current output of hard and soft coal combined is therefore some 2 000,000 tons short of that in the corresponding period of the 1919 strike

Lack of demand remains the limiting factor in most of the non-union fields During the week under review a number of additional non-union mines were closed by the strike but from those districts as yet unaffected reports of "No market" continue to be received The number of loaded cars unconsigned at the mines is still large, though now decreasing More coal could be produced if the demand increased

When the strike began the accumulation at the mines of unbilled cars loaded with coal was large Reports from the principal coal-carrying roads indicate that the average daily number of car loads unconsigned was as follows

Week Ended	Bituminous Cars	Anthracite Cars	Total Cars
March 4	14 126	1 718	15 674
April 1	28 587	2 506	31 373
April 8	30 730	2 815	33 546
April 15	26 700	1 605	28 715

It will be seen that the number of unbilled loads of soft coal is declining slowly and that the unbilled loads of anthracite have now been reduced to about the level of early March For the week ended April 15 this unbilled coal already has been ordered into cars but to which the carriers had received no shipping instructions awaited over 1 100 000 tons of bituminous coal and 80 tons of anthracite

Consumption is being met largely from storage At the present rate of output the draft upon consumers stock piles is not less than 000 000 tons a week

Winter Farmers' Week to be Resumed At State College

The annual Winter Farmers Week is to be re-established as a December feature at the Pennsylvania State College agricultural school After months of consideration and following many requests for the winter lecture series the college authorities have decided to resume the custom that was abandoned a few years ago when the June Farmers Week was established Both opportunities to visit State College will in the future draw thousands of farmers to the college campus and farms where they can obtain timely information on the latest farm methods

The date for the winter gathering has been set for December 18 19 20 and 21 From twelve to fifteen hundred farmers formerly visited the college for this occasion and more are expected with its re establishment

The date for the annual June Farmers Week at the college this summer has been advanced one week to June 14, 15 and 16 The Young Farmers Week will start on June 12 Preparation for these events are well under way An effort is being made to secure Secretary of Agriculture Henry C Wallace to speak at one of the evening meetings State Secretary of Agriculture Fred Rasmussen and Alexander Dunbar of Pittsburg president of the Pennsylvania State Bankers Association are also expected to speak

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel are gentle in their action yet always effective They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities

Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

The icy blasts pierced through Wilton's fur hood and mackinaw as if they had been cotton. His feet seemed like foreign bodies attached to his legs, up which he could feel the numbness creeping by inches toward his body. And when at last he reached the portage he looked out with incredulity toward the opposite shore, seeing only a flickering line of shadows through the slit between his frozen eyelids

Resolutely clasping the frozen form with his right arm, he stepped out upon the surface The wind, which blew through the gap with hurricane violence at almost all times had swept the ice as a broom might sweep a rink, in enormous circles, glassy and firm, with whirling snowpiles round them Wilton could progress only by inches, fighting the full blast of the gale, and seeing the line of his route only in fractions of seconds

He saw the bluffs in front of him and the opposite shore nearing And he fought furiously against the creeping numbness, knowing that each second counted for victory. It was perhaps a hundred feet farther He opened his eyes an instant. Eighty now —seventy, perhaps, one last effort to cross the portage

Fifty feet! With all of will and consciousness that remained Wilton set his face resolutely toward his landing place and strode on into the bank of snow piled up by the wind beneath the shelter of the bluffs His feet sank through the crackling surface, he struggled shoulder-deep to win the last lap of the way And of a sudden the ice broke under him and twenty-five feet from the shore, the snare of Big Muskeg held him.

Instinctively he sought to gather purchase from the sides of the sinkhole into which he had fallen The tourniquet-stick dragged through the yielding snow, the elbow of the arm that held Joe's body rested upon the ice. One instant he buoyed himself by this means over the peaty slush that sucked at him beneath Then, with a last cry that sounded above the roaring of the gale, he yielded And, clutching Joe's body to his own, Wilton went down.

CHAPTER II

The Imprint in the Snow.

McDonald, the factor, lay on his bed in an upstairs room of the house whose lower story was the trading store, and looked out through the window over the swamp beneath. It was two weeks since Molly had found him lying with closed eyes on the floor, with the flushed face and heavy breathing of apoplexy.

For two and twenty years McDonald had lived there, serving the company. Little had changed during that time The chief change had been in himself and, since this was to be measured rather by isolated happenings than the steady progress of time, McDonald could have counted on the fingers of one hand the scale-marks of his life.

The little finger was his arrival at Toronto from Aberdeen drawn to the New World by stories of life in the service of the famous company. The third finger was Mary

He had met her in Toronto, soon after his arrival in Canada, and she had been born in his own town though he had not known her there. Molly knew vaguely that he had championed her in trouble that had come upon her, for which she was not to blame There had been a blackmailer, a brawl, a knife-thrust, a blow struck wildly with some implement; a dead man, a white-faced girl clinging to him, and then the silence of the starlit streets. Donald McDonald still bore the scar of a ripping wound along his right forearm.

That had been their courtship The next day McDonald had married her, and brought her to the trading post. Six months later he was in charge of it. They had been happy during the year that passed before he laid her under the tamaracks, and after that Donald McDonald had lost all wish to return to Aberdeen or to pursue adventure farther.

Mary had been the third finger on the hand of McDonald's destiny, and her death was the middle one. The first was Molly, and it was about her that his thoughts clustered eternally.

Two seasons at the mission school at Moose Lake, a winter in Winnipeg —these comprised the girl's experience of the outside world. She helped her father in the store, and was a capable judge of mink and muskrat She could bring down a moose at a thousand yards, and guide a canoe down Horseshoe rapids.

She had gone to the Indian camp, five miles away, with medicine for a sick papoose, at daybreak, leaving her father in the care of Jules Halfhead, the Muskegon, a deaf mute who worked for the factor during intervals of wandering in the bush trapping

She did not like to leave him, for he had become more morose since his illness, and his mind seemed affected. When at last she entered the factor's room above the store, radiating youth and health, she saw with consternation that he was lying weakly on the pillow, and breathing as heavily as on the day of his stroke.

"You're feeling no worse, father?" she asked, sitting down beside him and taking his hand in hers.

"I'm no worse," said the factor, thickly. "You took the letter?"

"It will leave tonight. But I wish you had let me write that you are ill. The company would bring you to Winnipeg. They can do wonders at the hospital there, and you'd soon recover the use of your limbs."

Ever since his stroke the factor had dragged his right leg, and his right arm hung by his side He hardly ever left his bed, and then only to sit wrapped in his caribou robe staring out through the window at the portage

"I'll no go to Winnipeg said McDonald "I'll just stay here until I'm better I'm thinking the Dog Tooths will be bringing in their pelt'ries next week I'm thinking I'll no buy December skins this winter

"I was thinking the same The fall was too late, they won't be purchasable till the middle of next month But the Dog Tooths will want debt"

"They'll get no debt, said McDonald "See to it, Molly! But I suppose the squaws will get on the soft side of ye and it takes a man to handle them I'll have to get well" he continued speaking with feverish energy

His mind which had turned from one idea to another running from its fears now leaped upon them "What'll ye do, Molly?" he demanded roughly "There, my lass, I didna mean to put it to you like that But where'll ye go if I dinna?"

"Don't let us think of that, father" "Aye, but ye canna stay here I should have spoken before" In his distress he fell into his native speech. 'Mony a nicht I've laid awake thinking on it before I had the stroke, in the windy watch here I thocht I'd brocht ye up unspotted frae the warld And noo—"

The First Was Molly.

She laid her other hand on his. "If the worst should happen, I can take care of myself Don't fear for me, father," she said.

"If ye could have the store That'd be best But the company wouldna have a woman factor The company's conservative And the old store'll last out my days and yours in spite of Joe Bostock's folly That's what Mr Bowyer called it when he was here for the moose in October Joe Bostock'll never cross Big Muskeg And if he could where'd he get his freight and passengers?

"If ever this country's opened up Tom Bowyer will put his own line through He was telling me so But there's naething here but the moose and caribou and the Indians. It's always been that way, it always will be so"

He caught her by the sleeve "Ye'll no see Will Carruthers again!" he shouted

"I'm not likely to, unless he comes this way" she answered in a constrained voice dreading the outbreak of violence which she knew would follow.

"Aye, but he'll be here I ken the man and his kind The sight of a pretty face is meat and drink to him. He'll be here, and me lying helpless abed I tell you I ken the man Mr Bowyer was telling me about him His name's a by-word among decent folks."

"Well, Mr Bowyer's own reputation isn't the best" she retorted, nettled that she was forced to champion Wilton "You know Mr Carruthers has an interest in Joe Bostock's line Of course Tom Bowyer would try to set you against them!"

The factor's face grew purple with rage; he choked for utterance

"I ken the whole scheme weel!" he shouted "When you went to Winnipeg you got in thick with Kitty Bostock, and never a mail comes in but there's a letter from her She and Joe are going to get you there to leave me here alone Aye, I read that letter the woman wrote you, telling you that your life was wasted here I ken what the warld is, I learned it one night in Toronto, years ago And mark me, I'd rather see ye lying dead at my feet than the plaything of a man like Will Carruthers!"

That had been the burden of his reproaches ever since Tom Bowyer's visit the autumn before

Bowyer had poisoned his mind against Wilton—Molly was sure of that. She suspected that Bowyer had some hold over her father She knew that, years before he had secured him his position with the company As it happened, the company needed men for training—Scots, for the service had become a tradition in North Britain since the days of McKenzie And the company does not pick its employees out of the highways and byways.

Molly had known Tom Bowyer since childhood, although his visits to the trading post had occurred not oftener than once in two or three years She had heard much of his discredit in Winnipeg and had verified it when he spent a day or two at the portage in October Bowyer saw bigger game in prospect than the moose, and as a beginning resolved to rid himself of a possible rival Wilton Molly had spoken well of him, and Bowyer was a keen reader of mind

When the storm of her father's rage had passed the girl went down and stood miserably in the doorway His insane outbursts were driving her to the very course he feared Only his illness kept her from going away She looked out, her mind in a turmoil of doubt

Big Muskeg was at its lonliest The gale was driving the snow before it in clouds like spray, and the wind howled through the gap in the bluffs As the girl stood there she fancied that she heard a cry come across the frozen swamp

She slipped on the hooded coat which she had left in the store and went slowly toward the portage listening intently The driving wind had swept a portion of the trail in good clear of the fallen snow In this near the edge of the muskeg she saw the imprint of a man's moccasin coming from the swamp Her eyes, trained to observation, detected instantly that there had been a loose string under the ball of the foot, which had trailed, leaving an oblique line across the impression

There was the one imprint and no more And, as she looked at it a gust of wind drove a cloud of snow over it, obliterating it Molly took up The discovery which seemed of no importance passed from her mind Again she listened.

Then with the uncomfortable feeling that she was being watched, she started and peered into the underbrush A pair of beady eyes watched her They were those of Jules, the half-witted deaf mute For the moment Molly was startled Then she stepped forward, and the Muskegon vanished soundlessly among the underbrush

As the girl stood there she thought she heard the cry once more At once she was running down to the edge of the swamp and stumbling her ground with difficulty in the fierce gale She peered out, sheltering her eyes with her hand.

Then, dimly out of the whirling snow she saw a figure stumbling toward her, bearing on its shoulder something that looked like a railroad sleeper

Sometimes it vanished from her sight in the circular whirl of sleet at others reappeared, stumbling into the drifts, but ever nearing her It was within twenty-five feet of her when it slipped, and there followed the crash of the rotten ice beneath its feet The figure broke through the slushy layer into the muskeg below

Thus Wilton Carruthers came to the portage for the fourth time And on this occasion he was saved by the dead man for whose lifeless body he had risked his own life For as he fell, still clutching at what he bore the stiffened form slid out over the unbroken surface and held him head and throat above the bog

In a moment Molly was running toward Wilton Once his head went under and she cried out in despair but he reappeared and seemed to cling instinctively to his support for his eyes were closed and he was unconscious His face was frozen white It was only the contraction of the frozen sinews of his fingers that gave him his hold on Joe's body

It was then that in her terror Molly recognized Wilton She crept toward the brush and lay down on the ice groping toward him with her hands She shouted to him to hold fast and, finding that he was already unconscious crept cautiously nearer over the cracking surface

Then she saw what it was that Wilton had been carrying, and she recognized Joe Stunned momentarily by the shock she nerved herself to the task of rescuing the living She still crept forward until the upper part of her body extended across the break She placed her hands beneath Wilton's shoulders and tried to lift him

It was a task beyond her powers As she strained to it suddenly the ice broke all about her and in a moment she was floundering beside Wilton in the water

At this place the quicksand of the portage was of peat mixed with sand covered with water rather than slime Molly's feet touched bottom The water was only shoulder deep With quick resource she managed to draw her feet up from the swamp and to drag Wilton forward a pace or two thus freeing him from the clutch of the muskeg And now she felt firm sand under her She continued to drag him toward the shore and as they moved Joe's body still clutched in the set of Wilton's stiffened fingers slid grotesquely over the surface of the bog and

And somehow breaking the rotten ice in front of her body as she moved,

And Somehow, Breaking the Rotten Ice in Front of Her Body as She Moved, the Girl Succeeded in Getting Wilton to the Shore.

the girl succeeded in getting Wilton to the shore From that point half dragging and half carrying him over the snow she reached the store at last

She pried the stiff hand from Joe's body That was the hardest of her efforts Molly left Joe's body upon the threshold and got Wilton into her little room behind the store She raised him on the bed and laid him down, his head upon her pillow

Her teeth were chattering from the deadly cold that gripped her and her own hands were numb but she managed to strip off Wilton's socks his hood mackinaw and sweater His face was not badly frozen but his hands and feet were marble white

Suddenly the girl saw the blood that discolored the sleeve of Wilton's shirt She ripped the sleeve from the shoulder She saw that the arm was broken and that a bullet, entering behind had passed obliquely out leaving a small but not dangerous wound The blood had long since ceased to flow and clotted the wound in a congealed frozen mass

The danger from the frost bite was the more immediate Molly took snow from the threshold and began to rub his face, his feet and his fingers For nearly an hour the girl persisted never ceasing her efforts, in spite of her weariness and the thawing dripping clothes about her And at last the white skin began to be suffused with an angry red

Then she washed away the clotted blood from the arm and bared herself to the task that must be performed At the Moose Lake mission she had nursed an Indian with a fractured leg set by the superintendent, and this experience was all she had to go by But the break was a simple one She brought the edges of the bone together made splints from pieces of packing case and wound the whole tightly with cloth smeared with bear's fat Then she heated some broth and poured it drop by drop down Wilton's throat.

When she could do no more she took her clothes out of the room and changed in another, kept for travelers separated by a thin partition of pine planks

She had just finished when she heard her father shuffling down the stairs It was the first time he had left his bed The girl ran to the door in fear.

His eyes were suffused with red and his face twisted with passion It was evident that he had seen the rescue from his window above and had known what Molly was doing

MRS. ALVAH H. McCREARY, of Philadelphia, who says nothing she could say for Tanlac would be half good enough after the way this remarkable medicine has brought back her health.

It is just glorious to have my health back and I enjoy opening here is nothing I can say about Tanlac would be half good enough said Mrs Alvah H McCreary 1 Locust St, Philadelphia Pa

"For two years I had all the miserable and agonizing symptoms that go with a bad case of stomach trouble Although I dieted in the strictest kind of diet I suffered torture from indigestion and finally my whole system seemed to give way

I certainly know how to appreciate the wonderful blessing of good health and I have such confidence in Tanlac that I wish it was in my power to put a bottle of it in the hand of every sick man woman and child so that they might take it and get well and strong as I have done

Which one will it be to-night?

Have you, with the rest of us, used many tooth preparations in the past because you could not be sure of one? But science never rests.

Here is why you can now decide

THANKS to science, there has been discovered and perfected by Dr. C. C. Vogt, an Industrial Fellow of Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, a dentifrice—Mu-Sol-Dent, as it is know—which revolutionizes tooth cleaning. It removes the brownish film, protects the gums, helps prevent sensitive teeth and heals the tissues of the oral cavity—four things which in the old days it took several tooth preparations to do.

And it does all these things in a new way. To begin with it gently dissolves the film—it reaches the hidden crevices, and, in its dissolving action there is nothing to attack the gums or delicate tissues of the mouth.

Mu-Sol-Dent is gentle yet sure in its action. Brush your teeth the Mu-Sol-Dent way. Note that clean, satisfied feeling. Your tongue runs over smooth teeth. Use Mu-Sol-Dent for a week and you'll use nothing else. Consult your dentist as to the science behind Mu-Sol-Dent.

If you are thin and emaciated and wish something to help you put on flesh and increase your weight, Yeast Vitamine Tablets should be used in connection with organic Nuxated Iron Without organic iron and Vitamines are absolutely useless as your body cannot change inert lifeless food into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood Organic iron takes up oxygen from your lungs This oxygenated organic iron unites with your digested food as it is absorbed into your blood, just as fire unites with coal or wood, and by so doing it creates tremendous power and energy Without organic iron in your blood your food merely passes thru your body without doing you any good.

Arrangements have been made with the druggists of this city to give every reader of this paper a large $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free with every purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron.

CHAPEAU HINTS FOR SPRING

Fruits and Flowers in Abundance Are Predicted for Use on Variety of Headgear.

The wizards of millinery art are busy planning the creations that will adorn milady's proud head this spring

Some of the advance models are already on display and if there is anything in signs the spring is due for a rainbow of color in contrast to the sombre of winter

There is a new shade of violet bound to be becoming to the fair skinned and blond or brunette type equally well It is a sort of blue when first discovered not, one could not safely call it blue without fear of having one's neighbor call it violet So subtle is the color note that it is truly charming. Rose, too has a strange new blend It mixes with orchid to form a decidedly new shade for spring millinery

Fruit and flowers in abundance are predicted According to present signs the hat will be small, but trimmed At front just above the short brim a multitude of colorful fruits and flowers nestle together. Novelty fruit, such as pink grapes on a violet hat is shown Silver grapes on gray are new and fascinating So also are the green and yellow and blue fruits that nestle together to form a bizarre effect at the front of a tangerine hat in chiffon taffeta

Boudoir Garments Are Wool Trimmed.

Among the very popular and practical boudoir robes of the present season is the garment made of a light silk, such as crepe de chine and china silk, interlined with lambs wool and daintily quilted Frequently wool embroidery supplies the triumphant touch although quite as many are entirely untrimmed. Washable flannel dressing are also popular and dainty and wool challis is used for serviceable house dress garments For spring some very dainty cotton crepe negligees are being shown, and the low waistline so much featured in outer apparel enters the negligee field also some rather pleasing effects having been developed

Neck Ribbons Again.

The flapper set in Paris has resurrected the neck ribbon and it is fast gaining in popularity The girls are wearing a band of ribbon tightly about the neck just below the chin It is usually about half an inch wide, and the colors run all the way from bright yellow to black. Some of the wearers have a small gold ornament, such as a miniature heart, hanging from the ribbon by a chain in front It is just a fad and probably won't last more than a couple of months

COLLEGE BOYS EARN OWN WAY

Half of University Students in U. S. Self-Supporting.

CUBAN TELLS HOW HE DID IT

Yale Survey Gives Fair Indication of Conditions as They Prevail in Most American Universities—52 Per Cent Earning Their Way, at Least in Part—Waiting on Table for Board Is Favorite Way of Helping Out—Odd Jobs Pay for Books.

Young man, do you want to go to college? Say Yale, or Harvard, or Columbia, or Cornell, or Northwestern, or any of the big American colleges?

"Yes," you say, "that would be fine. But I haven't the money."

You don't need the money!

Make the money as you go along. Half the college students in America are earning their way through college, at least in part, government experts have found.

A trip to Yale shows you how they do it.

A questionnaire was sent out by the bureau of appointments of Yale to determine how many students were paying their own way by working.

Half Working Way.

President Angell of Yale says that half of the students of the college answered, and of these 52 per cent were working their way through.

One of them is Antonio Fresnada. He is a Cuban, and he started under a great handicap.

Fresnada is now in his junior year. He says it is a cinch for a young man to work his way through college.

"My freshman year was the hardest," says Fresnada. "The only thing I knew was manual labor.

"I waited on table for my board, took care of a furnace and shoveled snow from the sidewalks for my room. I sold Sunday papers, acted as agent for a laundry and at various other jobs made enough to pay for books and clothes.

"Vacations I worked as section hand on the railroad and carried bricks.

"But I stuck to it—while other fellows were becoming athletic heroes and taking part in social affairs.

"It is easier now. Tutoring and typewriting furnish me with enough to get by on.

"I pay $5 a week for my room. My board costs me $11 a week, tuition $8.50, books and papers $5, clothing $4, laundry $1.50, incidentals $3. This totals $83, and I find no difficulty in earning it.

"The experience has been valuable to me. It has taught me that if I believe in a thing, I can do it."

Many Self-Supporting.

Yale is not an exclusive school for the sons of rich men. It counts its self-supporting students by the hundreds.

However, exceptional qualities are demanded of the student who works his way through. The leisure time exempt from classes and studies, that more fortunate students spend in seeking pleasure, the self-supporting man must spend in earning his way.

A bureau of appointments whose chief aim is the aid of needy students is maintained.

The bureau works in two ways—by granting beneficiary college scholarships and acting as a clearing-house for work.

Where the bureau, after careful investigation of the applicant, deems that a youth's character and secondary school record have been of sufficient promise, an allowance of $120 of the total tuition fee of $150 for the first term may be made. The allowance for the second term of the school year and for succeeding terms depends on the student's academic standing.

For the first two years these allowances are made with the understanding that no obligation of repayment is incurred.

After the first two years, noninterest-bearing notes are taken for the remitted tuition, payment on which is due five years after graduation.

HUSBAND TO WASHTUBS

Court Sentences Him to Help Wife There Until He Gets a Job.

Judge George R. Heffy of Huntington, W. Va., established a precedent when he sentenced James Alexander, defendant in Domestic Relations court, to duty at his wife's washtubs.

Alexander was arrested by Sheriff Williams on complaint of Hattie Alexander, his wife, that he failed to support her and that instead of being a help he was dependent upon her earnings from washing clothes.

When arraigned, Alexander pleaded lack of employment. After hearing the evidence of the wife, Judge Heffy ordered that the "court, after hearing all the evidence, is of the opinion that the defendant is guilty as charged. He is ordered released from custody of the sheriff and directed to return home and assist his wife with her washing until such time as he can find employment elsewhere that will enable him to properly support his family."

Tubful of Honey From Hollow Tree.

A washtub full of honey has been distributed among friends by Mr. and Mrs. Jay Carty of Gibbstown, N. J. Carty was cutting down a large tree when he struck a hollow spot and found the trunk filled with honey.

The HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

How Much Seed Do You Need?

This is the time to scan the seed advertisements and write for catalogues to study the desired varieties for your garden if you have not already done so.

It is best to order the seed early and have it on hand in advance of planting time, in order to study out plans for the garden The following table of quantities give approximately the quantity needed to supply a family of from four to six, the smaller number being furnished a very liberal supply. There will also be a surplus for canning and drying No family will want all the vegetables in this list as some of the varieties will not be relished by every family.

This table is given more as a suggestive guide than as a hard and fast rule to be followed Varieties are left to the selection of the gardener as there is such a vast field in some of the vegetables that the individual fancy can easily be gratified:

Bean—Bush lima, one pint; pole lima, one pint; snap, one to two quarts

Beet, four ounces

Cabbage—Early, one packet; late, one-half ounce

Carrot, one ounce.

Cauliflower, one packet.

Celery, one packet.

Sweet corn, one to two pints

Cucumber, one ounce.

Eggplant, one packet.

Kale, two ounces.

Lettuce, one-half ounce.

Muskmelon, one ounce.

Watermelon, two ounces.

Onion sets, four to six quarts.

Garden pea, four to six quarts.

Parsley, one packet.

Parsnip, one-half ounce.

Radish, one ounce.

Salisfy, one ounce.

Spinach—In spring, one-quarter pound; in fall, one-half pound

Squash—Hubbard, one ounce; summer, one ounce.

Tomato—Early, one packet; late, one-quarter ounce.

Turnip, two to three ounces.

What Today?

The perpetual problem of "What to Eat Today" is the housewife's daily plaint.

Many grow negligent some allow others to order for them

Mostly all welcome suggestions which will vary their accustomed fare

Yet some are wary of suggestions, fearing to chance spoiling a meal with unsuccessful experiments

Each of you may be sure in following this suggestion to eat at least one meal of delicious fresh fish a week—you will be taking no chances of spoiling either hubby's, dad's or family's love of your good things to eat

Especially if CHILPAK, the fish that comes cleaned, wrapped and branded is used

CHILPAK is so fresh, sweet and odorless that your grocer or butcher carries it side-by-side with his other products

We know you appreciate this once-a-week meal hint and will order CHILPAK today

Varieties include Halibut, Cod Haddock, Sole and Boston Blue Fish.

SENATE WILL PASS BONUS BILL BEFORE TACKLING TARIFF

Cash to Come From Interest On War Loans to Great Britain.

ACCEPTABLE TO LEGION

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Bonus legislation requiring no additional taxation, but carrying greater cash provisions than offered in the House bill is scheduled to be passed in the Senate in advance of the tariff bill.

Such legislation, entirely acceptable to the leaders of The American Legion, will be reported to the Senate in the next two weeks, asserted a Republican Senate leader today, who has been in touch with the President, and is convinced that President Harding will not veto a bonus bill.

The President's view as to bonus has changed slightly, it is said, because of the expected payment by Great Britain of her interest on the American loan and adjustment of the loan itself The adjustment will come before the bonus law becomes effective.

It is argued by those close to the President that the interest payments will take care of a great amount of the cash bonus payments, and that the selling of English bonds to cancel that country's debt will place in the treasury in the next 10 months about $4,000,000,000, part of which can be used to pay cash bonuses and finance the other obligations under the bonus bill.

It is the belief of those who have followed the bonus dispute that the Senate will accept the essential features of the House bill. In other words, the insurance feature will be retained by the Senate with a slight change. The cash payments will be increased to $100 from $50. All those entitled to $100 will be paid in cash, and all those whose base pay calls for more will be given the insurance plan

This optional feature in the House bill will be eliminated by the Senate, but in other essential features the House bill will be adopted and improved upon by the finance committee.

It can be stated upon high authority that there will be a bonus bill in advance of the passage of the tariff bill. It can be said upon equally high authority that President Harding will approve the bill which the Republican Congress sends to him.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"THE SHEIK'S WIFE" which is being shown today as the leading picture attraction at this theatre, is a spectacular French production made in Arabia, "The Sheik's Wife" rings true down to the tiniest detail. Most of the roles are assumed by natives. Some of these players ride almost priceless Arabian steeds. The correctness in the detail of Eastern life and custom will be a welcome change to an American public not used to it The highest artistry of France was injected into "The Sheik's Wife."

Henry-Roussell, who has long been recognized as one of the greatest directors on the continent both for stage and screen and whose directorial star is in the ascendant, served for several years as an officer of the Algerian Spahis in Africa, and he was able to bolster his technical skill and dramatic art with complete familiarity with the habits and customs of the nomads of the desert. The difficult role of the Sheik Hadjid Ben Khedim is assumed by Marcel Vibert of the Comedie Francaise. The leading female role is played by a youthful actress whose art is mellowed beyond comparison with her youth

Thursday, Friday and Saturday "The Prodigal's Return" will be shown.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"FIFTY CANDLES"—The feature picture today and tomorrow, presents Marjorie Daw, Bertram Grassby and Dorothy Sibley in the principal roles. "Fifty Candles" is the name of an Earl Derr Biggers story; it ran in the Saturday Evening Post not long ago. The production was partly completed, in fact the producer had come to the part for which the title "Fifty Candles" stands. At the birthday party the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the family's faithful Chinese servant a beautiful big cake adorned the dining room table. On it were the usual fifty candles The scene was taken once—twice—and a third time—each time burning up fifty more of the little pink candles. Finally when the supply became exhausted, prop men were sent out for a greater supply They soon cleaned little Culver City of all its pink candles and their search reached Los Angeles before the end of the day—but they had to be found—they had to be little—and they had to be pink It was late in the evening, after a long day's search, that the men returned to the studio, tired, and thoroughly convinced that they had consumed all the little pink candles both in Culver City and Los Angeles

THE ORPHEUM.

"SATURDAY NIGHT," a Paramount picture, is the feature picture today at this theatre The story starts where others leave off—where the poor girl marries her rich ideal—where the heiress, tired of society whims, weds a plain man of the people. It is a picture that takes the old adage, "Like to like," and weaves it into a gorgeous tapestry of life—New York life, with its pleasure, its pain and its thousand alluring varieties. The leading players, including Leatrice Joy, Conrad Nagel, Edith Roberts and Jack Mower, vest their portrayals with artistry seldom seen in the movies Miss Joy and Mr. Nagel are society folks, while Miss Roberts and Mr. Mower are of a lower social class Cupid gets busy with all of them and the result is a mix-up through matrimony that would baffle any other producer than Mr DeMille to straighten out, but he does it with his accustomed grace The photoplay is filled with stirring and beautiful scenes, all of which will please picture fans. To reveal the story would be unjust to the reader, and it is perhaps sufficient to say that Jeanie Macpherson, who wrote it, never displayed her skill to better advantage.

Tomorrow "Appearances" a Paramount production, with David Powell in the stellar role, will be shown

AMUSING TO WOMEN TODAY

What Was Considered Proper in Mid-Victorian Days Seems Somewhat Ridiculous Now.

In a book written in mid-Victorian days concerning the proper manners of well-bred women appears the statement that a woman with graying hair is "hardly respectable without a cap," and that the woman of thirty-five who does not don the cap as signal of the fact of her advanced age has something of a "masculine aspect"

Such statements are amusing and sometimes just a little annoying—especially to the woman of thirty-five She consoles herself with the fact that times have changed enormously since those days and that now so long as a woman is slender enough to wear clothes selected by eighteen-year-old girls she is seldom criticised for wearing them.

But don't delude yourself into thinking that all women of thirty-five in mid Victorian days donned the cap of old age. Empress Eugenie wasn't married until she was twenty-seven, and she continued to be regarded as one of the most charming and beautiful women in Europe for many years

It is really no new thing for women of thirty-five, forty or over to retain their youthful charms and change very little their mode of dress or behavior as time goes on. Possibly our present mode of life, our athletics, our style of clothes tend more to the retaining of youthful appearance and real youthfulness than did conditions of the Nineteenth century

Had Him Guessing.

"What's wrong?" asked Parker. "You look worried"

"I am," replied his friend "I wrote two notes—one to my broker, asking him if he took me for a fool, and the other to Miss Golding, asking her if she would marry me While I was out somebody telephoned 'Yes,' and I don't know which of them it was!"

Where the Line Is Drawn.

"Yes," said the fellow with the bald brow, "it is certainly true that if a man hasn't any respect for himself, nobody else will have much respect for him."

"But it's equally true," returned the keen one, "that if he has too much, nobody else will have any."

Dad's Reaction.

He said to her, "My love for you
Is driving me quite mad"
She said to him, "How odd It has
The same effect on dad"

Feeds Limestone To His Wife to Make Her Jolly

If you would have your wife amiable, feed her limestone

That is an idea brought back from Europe by one of the professors of Ohio State University.

While on a visit to the estate of a breeder of Percheron horses in Le Perche province in France he saw a colt being fed super-phosphate of lime Inquiring as to the purpose of this strange diet he was told that the lime produces strong bone in horses He expressed his surprise at this, whereupon the French horse-breeder remarked

Why, I even feed lime to my wife"

"Why do you do that?" he was asked

"Because it makes her more amiable," was the response.

Piles

are usually due to straining when constipated.

Nujol being a lubricant keeps the food waste soft and therefore prevents straining. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it not only soothes the suffering of piles but relieves the irritation, brings comfort and helps to remove them.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

TODAY'S NEWS from WRIGHT-METZLER CO.

The First Peggy Paige Tub Frocks For Summer!

WHAT we shall wear o' the long summer nights to come is definitely determined by this little Exposition of Peggy Paige's first tub frocks.

There is a cool crispness about their ginghams and organdies and a youthful verve about their style that will endear themselves to you on sight.

New touches take the form of medallions of organdie placed, here and there, on a background of gingham. While Dotted Swiss trims itself with ric-rac braid and organdie petals

Best of all—prices are reasonable, ranging $16.75 up. Tub frocks in brilliant linens may be had for as little as $10.75. —Second Floor

Choose Your Invitation Cards Here

We offer you the services of one of the country's foremost social engravers to insure that the cards accompanying your graduation invitations will be completely correct.

There is a wide variety of style to choose from and prices range $3.75 to $6.85 per hundred cards and plate. —Main Floor

"Normandy Voile" Urges Needles to Action

Its sheer fine quality will first attract you—then the variety and beauty of its patterns. And the next step will be to buy a few yards of it that you may have a cool and delightfully becoming summer dress.

The colors are limpid blues, browns, whites and black flecked and dotted in a number of new and interesting ways. Priced 75c per yard.

French Imported Voiles in barred designs upon colored backgrounds are $2 and $2.25 yard. —Main Floor

Printed Indian Head, 50c Yard

Bizarre sports patterns distinguish this very new fabric—stripes, checks and plaid designs upon plain backgrounds.

Ideal for tub skirts and sport frocks and you need'nt fear washing them for the colors are guaranteed fast. 36 inches wide. —Main Floor

French Ratine a Favorite For Sport Wear

Only a French loom could have produced so daring a bit of material! It's colorful, it's unusual, it's becoming—it has every attribute to recommend it for your use.

A pebble surfaced material that comes in blue-white, green-white, black-white checks and in deep plain colors. 36 and 38 inches wide. And priced—the fancy patterns $1.50 yard. The plain $1.00 —Main Floor

New Shades in Sport Hose $1.50

Important news in a season that devotes itself so wholeheartedly to the Sports Motif!

These latest hose come in silk and lisle and the new shades are Grey, Henna and Gold. At $1.50.

A new Holeproof Hose that will be widely welcomed is in silk with ribbed top. Shades—black, white, cordovan and (new ones) camel and lark. $2.

A very clever infant's sock (now that we're on the subject of hose) has clever crotched loops around the top, through which is drawn a strand of dainty baby ribbon. Of course, it ends in a delicate bow. Colors—pink, blue and white. 75c.
